All-glorious two and forty mar - tyrs of Christ, you were bound after a sum - ma - ry ar - rest and shut up in prison for a length - y time. You were divine pre - serv - ers of the faith, who re - fused to submit to the commands of that infamous beast— of e - vil fame.

Therefore he was enraged and slew you with the sword. Now you have joyfully inherited high - er things, // joining yourselves to the heav - en - ly

King - dom.

Let us shout the praise of Con - stan-tine, Basoes and Callistus, Theodore and The - oph - il - us, and the rest of the divine company of ath - letes, for they sacrificed them - selves with joy, e - lect - ing to die for the Life of all. Now they rest in the city of the liv - ing

God, entreating that on the day of judg - ment, // we may find remission of sins and com - plete de - liv - er - ance.
