apostle, the priest-monk Juvenaly, is glo - ri - fied. He la - bored without concern for personal gain or earth - ly re - ward to enlighten an ancient people sitting in dark - ness. Like the first Apostles, he too was granted a mar - tyr's death, // and together with them he in - ter - cedes for our souls.

Today the Aleut Nation celebrates a feast of joy, for one of its own race is ex - alt - ed by God. To - geth - er with our venerable elder, Herman of Spruce Is - land, we cry out to the warrior who shed his blood for the faith: // "O holy New-martyr Peter, pray to God for us!"

Come all Orthodox believers of A - mer - i - ca, let us celebrate this feast of faith! In their de - vo - tion to Christ, the Holy Martyrs suf - fered will - ing - ly, recalling the Lord's promise that the Kingdom of God belongs to those who suf - fer for Him. Hav - ing fought the good fight and re - ceived their crowns, // they stand before the Lord and in - ter - cede for our souls.

Come all Orthodox believers of A - mer - i - ca, let us rejoice at this feast of hope! The vi - sion of the future growth of the Church in A - mer - i - ca inspired the martyred Hieromonk Juvenaly in his apos - tol - ic work. Committing his soul to the Lord, he rejoiced in the hope of e - ter - nal life. And the young

A - leut, Peter of Kodiak Island, offered himself as a liv - ing sac - ri - fice, trusting that in the world to come he would re - ceive his re - ward. //

Now in the Kingdom of heaven they in - ter - cede for our souls.

Come all Orthodox believers of A - mer - i - ca, let us sing for joy at this festival full of joy and love! For great - er love has no man than that he lay down his life. And in imitation of the Sav - ior, both the monk and the boy suffered, con - fess - ing their faith. Their love for Christ and His Holy Church could not be de-stroyed. They have joined the noble chorus of martyrs who stand before the throne of God, // where they in - ter-cede for our souls.
